May 1, 2009 : Hamilton, NJ;

Waters & Bugbee, Inc. proudly announces the appointment of Jeffrey Waters to the position of President of the Associated General Contractors (AGC) of NJ. In this position, Jeff will direct the leadership of the association including its Board of Trustees and Executive Committee for the 2009-2010 term.

In working with the chapter's staff and board, Jeff's leadership goals for the year include reaching out to each and every member of the association in an effort to encourage more active participation by all. While there are many long standing members that have supported its mission in assisting public and private construction contractors to meet the challenges of an ever changing industry, there is a new generation of members that are not yet highly engaged in its committees and committee activities.

Jeff anticipates the inclusion of new or previously inactive members will bring about different, fresh ideas and enthusiasm as well as augment the strengths of the current leadership and active membership. To facilitate the support of disengaged members, Jeff and the chapter's staff will be arranging face to face meetings to discuss the goals and direction of the chapter and the benefits of being an active member.

As one of only two all union construction trade associations in the state of NJ, the AGC holds a unique position and rapport with many state agencies as well as the various unions for which its members belong. Jeff's strengths as a communicator and experience as President of a union construction company enable him to facilitate conversation between these different parties. In doing so, his role will create opportunity for policy change for the betterment of the contractors the association supports.

The AGC of NJ is a statewide association of general and specialty contractors involved in heavy and highway construction, site development and utility contracting on public and private projects. It is one of ninety-six (96) state chapters all belonging to Associated General Contractors of America, the largest national construction association in the nation. The AGC of NJ's committees for which members will be encouraged to participate include the Safety Committee, Environment Committee, Member Relations Committee, and the all important Labor Committee.

Jeffrey Waters is the President of Waters & Bugbee, Inc. which is a third generation family-owned construction company and long time member of the AGC of NJ. Headquartered in Hamilton, New Jersey, Waters & Bugbee is a full service General Contractor and a recognized leader in the NJ utility construction sector.
